Summary

I have a passion for journalism and the arts and I look forward to sharing my skills with the write company.

I am a passionate and skilled writer and content creator looking for an amazing organization to begin my career with. I have worked in a diverse array of fields and have gained a unique skill set that I am enthusiastic about sharing with a great organization. Along with several writing internships I have spent years gaining hands on experience in photography, video editing, team management and project management to prepare myself for the dream position I seek.
